Media and Communications Training with Ed Chamberlin and Richard Hoiles

Improve your skills in front of the camera and in front of your peers with specialised coaching from two of the best in the business. This training will be relevant to anyone who wants to communicate better, whether aiming for a career as a TV presenter or wanting to be more effective in your existing job.

Learn:

- Importance of effective communication
- How to excel at both conducting and giving interviews
- Planning and preparation
- Decision making under pressure
- Projection and vocabulary, body language and voice control
- How to overcome your fears to build confidence
- How to present yourself like a professional

The training will be wholly interactive in a small group with each participant getting one-to-one interview time in front of the camera. Talkback can also be used for those wanting it.

Price: £500 + VAT

Student price on application.
